The management of EcoCentral Ltd is committed to providing safe and healthy work conditions for all of its employees, customers, contractors and visitors for the prevention of work-related injury and ill health. As part of this commitment, everyone is expected to perform their respective duties in a safe manner at all times and act diligently to identify and eliminate any unsafe working conditions and behaviours.

EcoCentral Ltd subscribes specifically to the following Health and Safety principles to achieve a zero-harm goal.

- A commitment to eliminate hazards and reduce OH&S risks.
- Operating, reviewing and improving all EcoCentral Health and Safety management system processes, policies, procedures and performance through internal and external auditing.
- Ensuring our systems and policies comply with the latest applicable health and safety legislation as a minimum standard.
- Implementing projects, company targets and audit procedures as vehicles for continuous improvement in health and safety performance.
- Ensuring accurate reporting, recording and investigation of workplace incidents, injuries and near misses.
- Ensuring managers, team leaders and supervisors understand health and safety responsibilities relative to their position.
- Ensuring all employees are given the opportunity to contribute to health and safety improvement initiatives and identification of risks.
- Making access available to professional health services for all EcoCentral employees and actively working to manage rehabilitation and work-based return to work programs.
- Ensuring all employees can fully participate in the implementation of health and safety policy and procedures through accurate reporting, regular training and health and safety meetings.
- The Board will ensure that the necessary resources are made available for health and safety initiatives as appropriate and will monitor the CEO's performance against those initiatives.
